

Thornton & Naumes Mesothelioma House & Patrick Thompson Suites

Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts

NEMD was commissioned to transform this neglected, partially vacant triple-decker into Boston's first housing facility for adult cancer patients and their families, conveniently located across the street from the main entrance of Brigham and Women's Hospital. This 3,600 SF renovation required a nearly complete reconstruction of the building, while preserving the original Victorian architecture. Modernization of the building included new building systems, new interior and exterior finishes, and selection of all interior furnishings & accessories.
